

RUGER LCP 380 ACP, $379
GUN TESTS GRADE: B+

The LCP performed with any ammo we loaded into it. The sights are minimal, and that's what we expect in a concealable pistol.

Tucking the small finger under the magazine helped shooters control the small pistol.

The textured front strap helped control the pistol in rapid fire.

The basepad of the six-round magazine added length to the grip. We liked the sweeping contour that reminded us of the Browning Hi-Power. The checkering was not effective, in our opinion.

Chamber condition could be checked visually through a cutaway and the downward position of the extractor.
